TEACHER OF MATHS

Candidates wishing for either a full-time or part-time post can apply as the post would suit candidates requiring 0.9 FTE up to full-time.

Information for Applicants

Applications are invited for the position of Teacher of Maths (full or part-time). The post offers an exceptional opportunity for a suitably qualified and experienced teacher to join this well-regarded and high-performing school. The post would suit either a newly qualified or an experienced teacher. Above all, the successful candidate must be enthusiastic about Maths and committed to teaching the subject, preferably to A Level standard.

The faculty consists of four full time and one part-time teachers, along with a specialist TA; the school's two Deputy Headteachers also teach Mathematics. Pupils are taught in mixed ability groups in Year 7, banded in Year 8 and there is currently setting from Year 9 upwards. Students currently follow the Edexcel specification for GCSE Mathematics as well as A Level Mathematics and Further Mathematics.

Mathematics is always one of the most popular subjects in the Sixth Form and Further Mathematics is also a well-established course. A Level teaching is organised so that all members of the department are involved. Last summer there were 45 A2 Level candidates and 31 gained either Grades A*, A or B. Students from school routinely go to university (including Oxford and Cambridge) to read mathematics or closely related subjects.

The majority of Maths lessons are taught in one of five specialist rooms; all are fitted with interactive whiteboards, each member of the department having sole use of a laptop. There is a good range of Maths software available for use on the school network which continues to expand. Training and support in the use of interactive whiteboards will be provided should it be required. The department subscribes to many online maths websites including MyMaths for all students and Integral for A level students. The general level of resourcing within the department is very good.

The department constantly seeks to provide enrichment activities for the pupils. Recently, these activities have included a Maths Club, UKMT Maths Challenges and Olympiads, as well as Primary Outreach sessions at some of our feeder schools. Additional G&T sessions are a well-established feature of the department's provision.

The successful candidate will be required to teach Mathematics throughout the school, including a share of GCSE and preferably A level work. He or she should be willing to support the further development of teaching and learning within the department.

It should be noted that all members of staff are expected to play a full part in the school's pastoral system. An ability and willingness to contribute to the wider life of the school would be a further recommendation.

The school is strongly committed to the professional development of its entire staff and there is a well-structured programme in place; there are many opportunities to get involved with the schools work as lead school for Charter Teaching School Alliance.

Duties will commence with effect from December 2018. The closing date for applications is Friday 28 September 2018. Completed application forms, together with a letter of application, should be emailed to enquiries@qegs.lincs.sch.uk and marked for the attention of Mrs Heather Payne (Headteacher).

The school is committed to safeguarding and promoting the welfare of children and young people and expects all staff and volunteers to share this commitment. The post is subject to an enhanced DBS disclosure.

Queen Elizabeth's Grammar School, Horncastle

Background Information

Horncastle is a market town with a population of some 7,000, situated about 20 miles from Lincoln and a similar distance from Lincolnshire's east coast. The school serves the town and a wide area of surrounding countryside, stretching northwards to the Wolds, southwards to Boston and into the Fens. A significant number of students travel from the greater Lincoln area to attend the school. The RAF station at Coningsby and the small town of Woodhall Spa are both within the catchment area.

The original Queen Elizabeth's Grammar School, which was granted its charter in 1571, moved to its present site in 1908. It was granted Voluntary Controlled Status in 1951 and during the period 1964 - 1976 underwent an extensive programme of building and modernisation. Successful experience of financial delegation under LMS led the Governors to seek full delegation of the school's finances. It became Grant Maintained in April 1992 and acquired Foundation Status in September 1999 and has grown in size to become a mixed four-form entry, selective grammar school with 803 pupils on roll and 205 in the Sixth Form. The teaching staff consists of 40 full-time and 16 part-time teachers, with support from 7 teaching assistants, numerous technicians, part time administrative assistants and library staff.

In our most recent OFSTED inspection the school was judged to be Outstanding. Although the school is unashamedly traditional in its attitude to work and to learning, it looks outwards to the world beyond Lincolnshire. Academic standards are high, but we are not complacent; the school is constantly looking for ways to improve what it does. We aim to provide a broad curriculum which caters for the individual needs of students and extends beyond examination requirements. There is a strong Sixth Form and a high proportion of students complete a full A Level programme before proceeding to university, other forms of higher education or employment and apprenticeships. Approximately 40 students from nearby secondary schools join the Sixth Form each year.

Extra-curricular activities are well represented and members of staff give voluntarily of their time and expertise to help with a wide range of activities, including sport, music and drama. The school organises trips and runs various schemes such as Young Enterprise, a Talking Newspaper and the Duke of Edinburgh Award.

The School became an Academy in September 2012. We work in close partnership through an umbrella trust with the other secondary academy in the town, Banovallum School, and are involved in a number of exciting initiatives in Science, Mathematics and Engineering. In addition, as a high performing specialist school (HPSS), we chose Modern Languages as our second specialism. The school re-gained Healthy School Status in 2014, currently holds the School Council Silver Award and the International School Award.

In 2017, the school successfully gained Teaching School status and works with a range of primary, secondary and Higher Education providers across Lincolnshire to improve the quality of education and opportunity for all. As lead school for Charter Teaching School Alliance, Queen Elizabeth's Grammar School offers a number of excellent opportunities for an ambitious, talented individual looking to develop their career. Through support and collaboration our aim is to make a significant contribution to raising standards in schools, leading to excellent outcomes for all children in the region. Charter Teaching School Alliance believes that engaging in an outward looking approach supports improved outcomes for all our pupils. This is best achieved by working closely with schools and strategic partners providing services to meet the needs of schools in many different ways. Charter Teaching School Alliance is delighted to be working in partnership with other local teaching school alliances.
